ENJOY THE FREEDOM

The South Florida Regional Transportation Authority launched its first regional public information campaign last December, in partnership with Broward County Transit, Miami-Dade Transit, Palm Tran and Tri-Rail. The "Enjoy the Freedom" Campaign encouraged residents of Broward, Palm Beach and Miami-Dade counties to visit more than 200 participating McDonald's locations in the tri-county area to receive more information on public transportation. As a result, more than 1,300 consumers took advantage of Tri-Rail's free ticket offer, and four winners were selected as recipients of free McDonald's for one year.

The campaign was funded by a generous grant from the Florida Department of Transportation.

NEW STOCK ROLLS INTO TOWN TO SUPPORT ADDITIONAL SERVICE

Passengers can expect to see some new equipment in the next month or so when the new double-deck Diesel Multiple Unit from Colorado Railcar is put into service. Additionally, two remanufactured locomotives will return from Kansas City, Missouri, where they were rebuilt by Mid-America Car Incorporated. GOVERNOR BUSH DECLARES TRAIN SAFETY AWARENESS WEEK APRIL 16-22

The statistics are grim and chilling. In 2004, there were 20 highway/rail grade-crossing fatalities and 22 pedestrian/trespassing fatalities in Florida, alone. Another 48 individuals suffered injuries from incidents involving people versus trains. Nationwide, at least 849 people were killed and 1,432 were injured during that same year. Approximately every two hours, a vehicle, pedestrian or some form of debris is struck by a train in the United States.

Railroad tracks, trestles, train yards and railroad equipment are private property and, as such, trespassers are subject to arrest and/or fines. Too often, however, trespassers pay a much higher price and die as a result of their actions. It takes an average train traveling at 55 mph more than a mile to stop, once the emergency brakes are applied. That's approximately the length of 18 football fields.

The South Florida Rail Corridor, on which Tri-Rail, Amtrak and CSX Transportation trains operate, has 72 crossings along 72 miles of track. Add the numerous trestles and bridges along the corridor and the potential for disaster is enormous. Acknowledging these potential dangers, Governor Bush has declared Train Safety Awareness Week beginning April 16. TSAW was created to promote education about dangers surrounding railroads and to involve law-enforcement personnel in the process.

During the safety blitz, pedestrians and drivers will be given information about train safety and violators will be issued citations and traffic tickets. Last year, more than one million local residents and visitors heard the safety message through volunteer outreach methods, as well as radio and television broadcasts and published articles, thanks to the widespread support of the print and electronic media.

The South Florida Regional Transportation Authority's efforts to promote TSAW are coordinated by Operation Lifesaver's South Florida Chapter and involve all levels of staff from the SFRTA and partnering agencies. TSAW brings together local police departments and emergency-response teams for seven days of safety blitzes at crossings that are of particular concern. This year's TSAW comes at a particularly critical time, with the newly enhanced Tri-Rail schedule offering a 33 percent increase in service.

If you would like to schedule a school or community presentation for your group, in English or Spanish, contact Mike Elias, Operation Lifesaver's South Florida regional coordinator at 954-214-1372 or melias@herzogcompanies.com.

EL GOBERNADOR BUSH DECLARA LA SEMANA DEL 16 AL 22 DE ABRIL COMO SEMANA DE TOMA DE CONCIENCIA SOBRE LA SEGURIDAD FERROVIARIA

Las estadísticas son crudas y escalofriantes. En el 2004 hubo en Florida más de 20 víctimas fatales en accidentes de autopista/paso a nivel y 22 víctimas fatales de peatones/cruce por lugares no permitidos. Otras 48 personas sufrieron lesiones en incidentes donde se vieron involucradas personas y trenes. En todo el país, al menos 849 personas murieron y 1432 resultaron heridas durante el mismo año. En los Estados Unidos, cada dos horas aproximadamente un vehículo, un peatón o algún tipo de escombros es arrollado por un tren.

Las vías del tren, los caballetes, los espacios verdes junto a las vías del tren y el equipamiento ferroviario son propiedad privada y en consecuencia, aquellos que entren sin autorización serán multados y/o arrestados. Sin embargo, a menudo los intrusos deben pagar un precio más alto y mueren como resultado de sus actos. A un tren común que viaja a 55 mph le toma más de una milla detenerse luego de que se hayan aplicado los frenos de emergencia. Aproximadamente el largo de 18 campos de fútbol.

El Corredor Ferroviario del Sur de Florida, donde operan los trenes de Tri-Rail, Amtrak y CSX Transportation, cuenta con 71 pasos a nivel en sus 72 millas de vías. Si a eso se le suman los tantos caballetes y puentes con que cuenta el corredor, la probabilidad de accidentes es enorme. El Gobernador Bush reconoce estos peligros potenciales y por lo tanto ha declarado la Semana de Toma de Conciencia sobre la Seguridad Ferroviaria (TSAW por sus siglas en inglés), a partir del 16 de Abril. La TSAW se utilizará para fomentar la educación sobre los peligros relacionados con las vías del tren y para involucrar a todo el personal de las fuerzas de seguridad en este proceso.

Durante esta campaña intensiva de seguridad, los peatones y los conductores recibirán información sobre las normas de seguridad ferroviarias y quienes las violen recibirán una citación judicial y multas de tránsito. El año pasado más de un millón de residentes y visitantes recibieron el mensaje de seguridad a través de métodos de llegada voluntaria, así como también por medio de la radio y la televisión, y de artículos publicados, gracias al gran apoyo prestado

Debris from the recent incident at Prospect Road covered both tracks and delayed trains for hours.
